

A Patriot's Faith in a Treasonous World Nehemiah

*Righteousness exalts a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people.
Proverbs 14:34*

A true patriot wants what is best for his country—and what is best for the country cannot be accomplished without the righteousness of God.

There are always people who care about their own power and profit more than their country.

Those who wish to destroy the country will always accuse the true patriots of the treason that they are actually guilty of.

The key to rebuilding anything significant (including a country) is the “next to him” principle.

The work of a patriot is always two-fold. You work like it all depends upon you and you pray like it all depends on God.

God wants to use individuals, churches, and countries as examples of His blessing so that others will be drawn to Him.